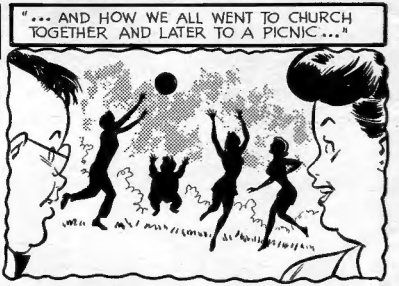
the FOX and the CROW

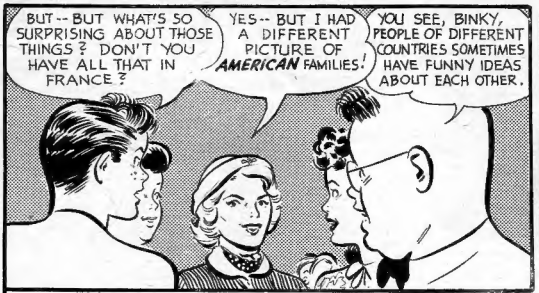
WELL, YOU ASKED FOR ONE OF MY CUSTARD PIES, DIDN'T YOU ?

also
THAT SLAP-HAPPY PAIR
THE HOUND and THE HARE!

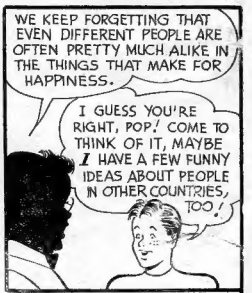
Binky asks "WHAT DO You KNOW ABOUT OTHER PEOPLE?"

IT'S BEEN WONDERFUL BEING WITH YOU THESE PAST FEW WEEKS. I'VE LEARNED SO MUCH ABOUT AMERICA...
SURE, COSETTE, YOU CAN TELL YOUR FRIENDS IN FRANCE ALL ABOUT OUR BIG BUILDINGS AND ELECTRIC GADGETS AND...





BUT--BUT WHAT'S SO SURPRISING ABOUT THOSE THINGS? DON'T YOU HAVE ALL THAT IN FRANCE?
YES--BUT I HAD A DIFFERENT PICTURE OF AMERICAN FAMILIES.
YOU SEE, BINKY, PEOPLE OF DIFFERENT COUNTRIES SOMETIMES HAVE FUNNY IDEAS ABOUT EACH OTHER.



WE KEEP FORGETTING THAT EVEN DIFFERENT PEOPLE ARE OFTEN PRETTY MUCH ALIKE IN THE THINGS THAT MAKE FOR HAPPINESS.
I GUESS YOU'RE RIGHT, POP! COME TO THINK OF IT, MAYBE I HAVE A FEW FUNNY IDEAS ABOUT PEOPLE IN OTHER COUNTRIES, TOO!

ONCE upon a time, not long ago, a squirrel named Sam got acquainted with a little goblin named Inchy. He was named that because he was just one inch tall!

"Sam, I'm glad to make your acquaintance!" Inchy said. "I'd appreciate it if you'd do me a favor!"

"Why fine!" Sam Squirrel said. "What is it?"

"I wish you'd go about your regular business of gathering acorns," explained the goblin, "but instead of hoarding them in your home in the tree, I'd like you to bring them to my home!"

"Sure!" answered Sam. "But where is your home?"

Then Inchy put his finger to his lips mysteriously and said, "That's a secret!"

"Well, anyway, why do you want the acorns?"

"That's a secret too!" Inchy replied.

Sam was a bit annoyed that there had to be so much secrecy, but he wanted to be friendly, so he did as he was told. He gathered hundreds and hundreds of nuts, and brought them all to a certain spot in the woods. Inchy had chosen the spot, and asked him to hide the acorns there under a pile of twigs.

Then one day, when Sam brought a new batch of acorns to the hiding place, and lifted up the twigs, he found that all the acorns were gone!

"Why, Inchy has taken them away," Sam thought, "and now I'll never know what all the secrecy was about!"

As Sam Squirrel walked home, he was thinking, "I was really taken for a sap! That goblin pretended he wanted to be friends with me, but actually all he wanted was a sucker to collect acorns for him! Now that he's got what he's after, he disappears!"

The more he thought about it, the more bitter Sam became. It was awful realizing that now his curiosity would never be satisfied! Now he'd never know why Inchy had wanted the acorns!

"Ah, to think that such a little guy could make such a big dope out of me!" Sam said.

Then, one afternoon not many weeks later, Sam was walking through the forest when he noticed something! Looking down at the ground, he noticed that there was an acorn here and an acorn there, continuing along in a straight line, as if they'd been dropped by mistake!

"Jeepers!" Sam exclaimed, "I bet Inchy dropped these as he was removing the pile of acorns from under the twigs! So . . . if I follow this line of acorns, it might lead me right to Inchy!"

Sam was delighted! Now, perhaps, he could solve the whole mystery after all! Keeping his eyes on the ground, he stepped from acorn to acorn. His heart beat quickly as he realized that soon he would reach the secret place!

It took almost an hour for Sam to reach the end of the line of spilled acorns! And then, having finally gotten to his destination, he looked around hopefully!

"B-but . . . there's nothing here!" he said.

He was right at the edge of a high cliff, and there was nothing and nobody nearby except a sleepy-looking eagle, who was resting on the precipice with one eye open and the other eye closed!

"Mr. Eagle," Sam said, "have you seen a tiny goblin one inch tall?"

"Um hm," answered the eagle without stirring at all. "Inchy is a customer of mine!"

And the eagle went on to describe what he meant. It seems that he charged twenty cents a trip to take passengers to the top of Gold Lava Mountain. That was the mountain down which a hot stream of golden lava flowed, and there was no way to get there except by flying.

"I noticed that Inchy always carried a bundle of something with him when I fly him over," mentioned eagle.

"Here's twenty cents!" Sam said, "and get me up there in a hurry!"

So, a few minutes later, Sam Squirrel arrived at the top of Gold Lava Mountain. Then he asked the eagle to wait for him there, and he climbed down the mountain alone, down to the hot stream of golden lava. It shone brilliantly in the sunlight, and smoke poured out of it. It was an awesome sight!

But he was soon to see an even stranger sight! And that was the sight of a little goblin, dressed in an asbestos suit to protect him, using a long pair of plyers to dip acorns into the lava!

Quietly Sam crept up behind him and then, scaring him so he almost fell into the lava, said, "HELLO INCHY!"

Inchy's first reaction was to jump over to a pile of gold nuggets he had piled on the ground, but Sam was too quick for him!

"Oh no you don't!" he said, brushing Inchy aside. "No more secrecy, friend!"

And as Inchy watched nervously, Sam examined the gold nuggets and found out that they were just acorns, with lava hardened on them to make them look like real solid gold nuggets!

A while later the eagle had a large load! Sam, with one hand grasping Inchy and the other hand grasping a big bag of golden acorns, was heading back for the nearest jail! As the eagle soared into the sky and the breeze rushed past them, Sam shouted to Inchy:

"YOU'RE A NASTY LITTLE GOBLIN AND YOU'RE A NASTY LITTLE COUNTERFEITER. . . . . I WISH YOU WERE AN ACORN TOO. . . . I'D DIP YOU IN THAT HOT LAVA AND NEVER LIFT YOU OUT!"
